

Free Online Tutor/Teacher In-Service Training

Meeting the Needs of Diverse Adult Learners

Date: February 28, 2012      Time: 12:00 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Description: Adult educators and volunteer tutors want to help adult learners who struggle to learn to read, write, or speak English. Understanding the best teaching strategies for English language learners or others with learning challenges can improve educational outcomes for many adults. This interactive webinar reinforces that good teaching meets the needs and preferences of diverse adult learners including those with learning difficulties, or specific learning disabilities.

Attendees are requested to complete the Learning Disabilities and English Language Learners online module. FLC highly suggest attendance at any previous Learning to Achieve Training, but this is not required in order to be able to participate.

Fee: Free! Please share this with your fellow tutors and teachers.

Participate from the comfort of your own home or office. All you need is a computer with speakers and an access to the Internet. How does it work? We will send you a web address (URL) when you register. Approximately 5-10 minutes before the workshop is scheduled to begin, you simply go to that URL, enter your full name, and click "Login" to access the session.

Presenter: Betsy Stoutmorrill earned her PhD in Education in 2009 by completing a qualitative life history research project that captured the stories of adult non- and limited- readers. Dr. Stoutmorrill has been in the field of adult education focusing on adult literacy and learning disabilities since 1989. Betsy has gained experience as a high school special education teacher, high school literacy coach, ABE/GED instructor, college professor and professional development trainer. She has been fascinated by the art and science of learning to read since she realized as an adolescent that her father could not read.
